UNITED STATES' RESPONSE TO "DEFENDANTS'
JOINT MOTION TO COMPEL DISCOVERY RELATED TO THE ALLEGATIONS IN THE SUPERCEDING INDICTMENT PERTAINING TO CONSPIRACIES FROM 1990 TO 1999" (DOC. 740)

COMES NOW the United States of America, by and through David C. Iglesias, United States Attorney for the District of New Mexico, and James R.W. Braun, Assistant United States Attorney for said District, and hereby responds to "Defendants' Joint Motion to Compel Discovery Related to the Allegations in the Superseding Indictment Pertaining to Conspiracies from 1990 to 1999" (Doc. 740).

All of the defendants in this case are charged in Count 1 of the Superseding Indictment with conspiring to distribute 1000 kilograms and more of marijuana from approximately 1990 to August 2005. Ten of the defendants are also charged with conspiring to launder money during that same time period.

In their motion, the defendants ask the court to order the United States to produce discovery pertaining to the charged conspiracies pursuant to Fed. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(1)(E).

In making this request, the defendants ignore that the stipulated Second Order Setting Deadlines and Declaring Case Complex already requires the United States to either produce such items or to make them available for defense inspection. Because the court has already entered an order governing the production of the discovery the defendants seek in their motion, the motion should be denied as moot.

While the defendants' motion is easily disposed of on that basis, their discussion of the evidence in this case should not go unanswered. Because the defendants have apparently been unable to discern why the charged conspiracies are alleged to have begun in 1990, they conclude that the government either "lacks any evidence to support its allegations that there were conspiracies to distribute marijuana and to launder money prior to 1999" or that it is "withholding, concealing, or suppressing evidence to support these allegations." (Def. Mot. at p. 2). Far from concealing evidence, however, the United States has gone above and beyond what is required under the stipulated scheduling order by providing the defendants, on September 21, 2006, with reports of interviews of certain cooperating witnesses. And despite the defendants' assertion that "there is no information in the discovery to support the allegation of a conspiracy pre-dating 1999," (Def. Mot. at p. 2), several of those witnesses describe their involvement in the charged conspiracies well before 1999: CW3 described transporting his first load of marijuana for the organization in 1997; CW4 described transporting bulk cash on behalf of Dana Jarvis in the early 1990's; CW5 described holding bulk cash for Dana Jarvis beginning in approximately 1990; and CW8 described supplying bulk marijuana directly to Dana Jarvis beginning in approximately 1994, and indirectly through Dennis Cox prior to that.

WHEREFORE, the United States respectfully requests that the court deny the defendants' motion as moot.

Respectfully submitted,

DAVID C. IGLESIAS
United States Attorney
